

Video Relay is the closest equivalent a deaf person has to using a telephone. The advent of this service has allowed deaf individuals the opportunity to function in society the same as would their non-deaf peers. Cutting this service would be a grave dis-service to the deaf community as a whole.